Ye Editor Ed. Harris

I wish to thank once again, all the willing HELPERS WHO ARE devoting much of their time in the production of CNK especially to my wife Rita who always helps in the typesetting. It is all this kind of volutary assistance that makes this magazine possible.

Once again the annual Skywatch date of mid June is upon us. Readers should become specially alert and send us any unusual sightings.

We were informed, that the recent UFO sighting at Taree in Australia was in fact Venus!!

And while on the subject of celestial bodies, would anyone with astronomical knowledge like to write on astronomy to balance up CNK further.

The MAJOR ISSUE for us here, and indeed, I am sure MANY ufologists are of the same opinion, is the way the UFO enigma is handled by the broadcasting media in general and therefore ought to come under fire from the critical pens of some of the world's top writers of ufology, to correct this situation. We have attempted to present a fair picture and hope to start the ball rolling.....

INTRODUCTION

Cosmology is the science of the Universe as a whole; a treatise on the structure and parts of the system of creation. The title COSMOLOGY NEWSLINK, was formulated from the need to fit together inter-related subjects which may or may not have bearings on each other and perhaps leading to the answers or conclusions of some of them - if not all of earth's mysteries in which case this magazine has accomplished its function. Most of our title was suggested by Mr. Patrick Dineen, of Co. Kerry Ireland, We added the LINK.

PHILOSOPHICAL LOOK AT UFOS

by Fred O Gardner Fras Fiec
continuing

The only way we human beings can treat each other as brothers i.e the brotherhood of man, is by beginning to know the nature of man, that is a knowledge of ourselves, individually. Questions like these need to be asked: 1. who am I ? 2. Where have I come from? Why am I here! 4. Where am I going!

Who am I, who are we. Our respective names, addresses, reputations and personalities are of no basic importance, from a worldly or material standpoint yes; but to those who are prepared to accept the premise that man is a spiritual being. Man is not merely a three-dimensional being with five senses, he is essentially a tripartite being, he is spirit, soul and body, and in that order.

What has this to do with UFOs or space visitors? Everything! Many, if not most of us have got the wrong idea on who or what we are.

We have been led to believe that we come on earth, live a transient existence, then pass on and don't come back any more, except wait indefinitely in some nebulous state to await judgment and receive our final desserts, some to receive everlasting life for subscribing to a specific belief and the others, alas most of mankind, to pass into eternal damnation for failing to subscribe to that requisite creed or belief.

(of course, we know there are very many people who do not believe in anything at all, as far as spiritual matters go, and that when they die, then that's that, like the proverbial candle being 'snuffed' out, so they too are snuffed out, completely).

Man is spirit or a spiritual entity. Upon incarnating in a human body, he first clothes himself into a mental body, then an astral or emotional body and finally physical one.

THE GREAT T.V UFO BOTCH-UP!

We are today going to bring to public notice the distasteful disgrace of some of the broadcasting media when they put out programmes on potentially explosive problems as unidentified flying objects.

Of course it is difficult for some television producers, it seems, to distinguish fact from fiction and the crank from the researcher; and appears to present a totally biased transmission, a kind of 'tongue in the cheek approach'. This is how it looks to me. This in my opinion, ridicules the TV producer, the network, the interviewer, the researcher or scientist and the viewers.

Judge the following:

My favourite station, Anglia TV produced an excellent short programme on UFOs a few months ago which suggested to me that UFOs WERE real, and showed a headmaster, I believe, from Bradbury, who had been studying UFOs for a number of years with the help of his own radar scanner, and by mathematics & had almost proved, to me, that they really existed. But on ending this mini-documentary all impact on viewers may have been wrecked by showing a close-up of a toy robot marching emitting sparks. To me, the programme meant- "well! Yes we believe, from this report Ufos could really exist, and maybe the government knows they are real - BUT the Public musn't know Ufos really exist so we will ridicule it, WE HAVE TO! Hence a serious factual documented start, bordering on the reality of UFOs: then a stupid end.

This is visual mock form, at its worst! In this biased light and in my opinion, puts the mockery on the TV personel, who produce such programmes.

Ufologists are divided whether UFOs present a threat or NOT to earth. But the TV fiction series called 'UFO' makes no bones about it, they are the enemy, rightly or wrongly. To be fair, Anglia TV did present Rex Dutta and his findings on the Alex Birch UFO hoax case, and the only closing remark was "therer's a man passionate about his subject."

TVscience reporter Peter Fairley does not commit himself on ufos, if they are debated, and tactfully sticks to known items.

Therefore, we urge all TV media etc., to cut out the farce, and give it straight - we are not all daft!

CRITICISM?

By Ed. J. O. Hare

Or for want of a better word, THE KNOCKING GAME. It depends on how and to what it may be applied.

In many cases in the past and present. The word has been used in the UFO field, sometimes very effectively and very often, to say the least, by those who should have known better!

Many editors, writers, and others, who have in some way or another, wrote about the flying saucer subject material, in journals and in book form, have been the target of the so called honest to God critics! In some cases, It is also common knowledge that some of these have had to close thier journals from these attacks by high paid critics. In so doing, losses to it's members have been great.

The knocking game as played by the other type of person or persons, are those who sit on the fence, prepared to take all but give nothing, either moral or financial support, or otherwise etc.

Literature has been many on space craft from other worlds, than our own and why not! Many are those who try to dispel the flying saucer sightings and their connection with extra-terrestrial life. Maybe because their very existence may imply a threat to the positions of many on this planet earth.

This carpet of hypocritical attitudes can be attributed to many; politically, religiously and scientifically inspired self-interested people.

I have been extremely disturbed in the past to read some books by a certain few writers to knock those who have claimed contact with people from other worlds.

Some of these known contacts no longer with us on this earth. Others are trying to make a success out of a difficult situation, made even more difficult by the knockers of the UFO situation and even claiming a certain amount of respectability in the outside world.

Now we come to the violence which prevails in the UFO field, and is around in all forms.

Pick up certain comic books or papers where the write up or drawing portray civilisations other than our own. Nine will get you ten that the aggressor is always shown as people from another planet, with the good old earthling always coming out on top, sometimes by having blown the alien space craft and its crew to bits!

What a way to instruct young childrens minds about other life and what it stands for. How in heavens name do knockers in this field, expect young life to grow up with healthy minds when they are subjected to this kind of brainwash, again, by those who should know better.

When such papers, books, television etc., show this leaning towards violence, then it becomes the breeding ground for hate.

Maybe, I hope the day will come when real contact with extraterrestrial space craft may be made, then we will learn the full meaning of the Cosmic word. Truth knows no barrier.

We have made great steps in the last 10 to 15 years in most sciences and we should not forget those pioneers that made it all possible despite the high class criticism aimed at them in their time of trial and error. The others, the knockers, or if you like, the scoffers, gave us NOTHING, but to try to distort the facts. The best judge has been the uninformed public, not the highly trained critic, scientist, or others. The list of reputable people is endless, who have seen and have had their statements on sighting of space craft and contacts discredited. Some of the arguments put forward for not accepting, by people investigating such claims is, if that person, is a believer or has any such literature on UFOs in his house. What they are really saying is: One should not learn morse code to understand its meaning! I believe, in Australia an example is set to children, by giving them an hour teaching on the subject of other life and space craft of the UFO type. I was given this information by my nephew, when I was there in 1969. An example that should be followed by schools the world over. Let's hope that somewhere, people who read this, somehow, will get something done in this day and age. People who once donned the blinkers are now taking them off and learning the REALITY of the situation and giving it serious consideration, no longer willing to accept statements from those whoes very characteristic have cried ANTI-UFOs. CNK and others must combine their efforts, and get rid of the knockers, of this subject. Best wishes. Ed. O' Hare.

ENGLAND: 2-4-72 A Meols couple reported they were followed along an unlit main road by two luminous objects. They were driving along the Birkenhead Road towards Moreton., HARLOW (England) Monday 19th Jan 1973. While visiting an aunt in Burnham on Crouch George Clay was told by her that she had seen on several occasions what she had reason to believe a UFO. A disc shaped object emitting a bright blue light hovering about 1000 yards away and about 200ft in the sky, it hovered for about 30 minutes and then flew off in the direction of Southend on sea. It appears at about the same time of day every time. (Editors note: I wonder if Venus flies off after only a 30 minute saty????!!! eh!)

Italy: -Pordenone. Time: 00:45 to 01:25 (approx) 5th Feb 1973. Location: West of Pordenone, Estimated to be 6 to 10 miles. Elevation estimated 3,000ft. Object was stationary for more than  $\frac{1}{2}$  hour. Observed by William F. McCord, (engineer) wife and 12 year old daughter. Through Binoculars for the whole period. Object changed in colour from red to green to blue. Light was intense and intensity increased at different intervals seemingly when colour was turning blue. Object started to move at approx 01:15 in a northern direction and disappeared completely from view at approx. 01:25. Weather: Sky was cloudless. Was 15 to 20 times brighter than brightest star observed through binoculars.

A report by several teenagers that a FS landed briefly in a field in western Wyandotte County is being investigated by the sheriff's Dept. Patrolman Jim King said they saw a long object with red lights all around it in the sky. He said they reported it kept stopping and going and then landed briefly in a field before taking off in a North-Westerly direction.

AFRICA: Ft. Beaufort, South Africa.

Police and a farmer opened fire on an unidentified flying object sighted near here. But the object which they said first appeared as a ball of fire and then changed colour frequently, dodged the rifle fire and flew away.

New Zealand: A glowing UFO reported moving slowly over the Havelock Hills early in the morning, May 19, 1972 by several Hawke's Bay people, including 3 policemen who followed it by telescope for an hour, and baffled experts as to its origin, according to an account in the "Hawkins Bay Herald Tribune", of Hastings, New Zealand. Described as barrel shaped, but bluntly cut off at one end with a band around the middle when viewed through the telescope. It hovered from south to east and the band, glowing brightly on the outer edges, constantly pulsated. The centre had a translucent appearance as the object moved in a 40-degree arc across a dark sky devoid of stars of any magnitude. Officials consulted said it was unlikely the object could have been a weather balloon, satellite, space projectile, space junk, meteorite or any other known object. ## THE UFO THAT CHANGED MY LIFE

By Leo V. Bartsch

To begin with, I left on a trip on Dec 23, 1956 and I told the following mentioned person, "I'll be back in 3 months." I returned on Mar. 22nd. This person died the 23rd. (3 months to the day); and while the dying person's head lay on my arm, in the hospital, it left a numb spot in that arm the instant death took place. This felt like a rope about a foot long had entered my arm. I believe this was a demon. I did not say this at first for obvious reasons. I didn't even know what a demon was. My doctor could do nothing to help! It only got worse during the next three years. The fingers began to twitch and tremble. I had no control of it. It felt like the blood did not want to enter into this arm. Read Matt. 12:26-28 (satan will not cast out demons) but God will and did, by his spirit 3 years later. On the morning of Sept. 27 1959, about 3.00 am. I woke my wife to tell her "Something out of the universe just went low over this roof." Although I saw or heard nothing, I KNEW IT! How or why I do not know. I became weightless for almost a minute. My arm became normal instantly. Then I realized she must be thinking I had a nightmare, so I told her to look at the clock and be sure to remember the time, as, I said, "Someone saw it, and it will be in the newspaper. I even wondered why I was saying this when I had not heard or seen a thing. And when the next issue came off the press there it was, in the Sept. 28th (my birthday) 1959 issue of the "World" newspaper, of Coos Bay, Oregon. A mother and her two sons, ages 7 & 9... (notice 3 witnesses) had seen a beautiful coloured flying object, which she reported:

to the police and the Air Force. She gave approximately the same time and altitude I had told my wife; although as I stated I saw or heard nothing, yet to this day I have not met this lady. This woman and her sons lived only 3 miles from me. From where she lived the direction of her sighting was directly over my house and she stated it was low. I started to attend UFO and flying saucer meetings, until...three years later in Sept. 1962, for the first time I began to look for spiritual help; when for some unknown reason I looked up and silently said, "Oh God, who art Thou?" Then suddenly my entire left arm which had been healed back in 1959, felt like a sparkling electric contact; yet wonderful! Then suddenly I heard these words, "How did you like your answer?" This took me by surprise. I wondered why a sinner like me would even ask that question "Oh God who art Thou?" I had never read the Bible or ever used words like that before? God must have put the words in my mouth then answered it by using my left arm; and then asked me "How did you like your answer?" Because I then remembered the UFO experience (of 3 years back) on Sept. 27, 1959 when a demon was taken out of that arm. God speaks his secrets in parables (Matt. 13:35). Notice again three things happened which jolted my unbelief. Now I know these are the UFO of God. Psa. 68:17 says the chariots of God are twenty Thousand. My left knee is stiff because I have no knee joint, and some say Leo, I will believe you when your left knee bends. Well with all the unbelief in the world "I WONDER?" I would like to point out something here, when I said "Oh! God, who art Thou?" and then experienced an electric jolt. We take electricity for granted and give it many big names, but it's still a mystery to man, and so is God.

Space Research Section

With the Apollo moon-landing completed, the United STATES MANNED SPACE EFFORT DURING the remainder of the decade will concentrate on several new objectives-using space technology to solve earth problems, taking the first steps toward permanent scientific laboratories in space and extending the areas of international co-operation. This year effort is centred on Skylab the first experimental space station, which is designed to provide a 'home from home' in space—an orbiting workshop in which men can live and carry out useful work for periods of up to two months. Skylab, converted into a well-equipped laboratory from an empty rocket tank.

During its planned life of eight months it will be occupied by three separate teams of astronauts—the first for 28 days, the others for up to 56 days.

Skylab's basic objectives include: the application of space-age techniques in studies of the earth's resources, the study of the effects of extended spacelight on humans, the extension of spacelight techniques and the effects of zero-gravity conditions on certain materials. In their studies of material the crews will experiment with melting, moulding & welding metals. The expectation is that weightlessness will give them the opportunity to alter physical and chemical processes, as well as manipulate metals in ways impossible on earth.

CONTACT

This section deals with man's attempt to establish real contact with extraterrestrial creatures from outside our own world

Finally, after millions of years and countless interactions, a long molecule was born that had an extraordinary capability: it could replicate, probably by breaking into sections that attracted other chemicals that in turn became duplicated of the original molecules. With the emergence of these genesis molecules, biological evolution was on its way.

A now classic experiment, performed in 1953 at the University of Chicago by a young graduate student named Stanley Miller, suggests that the theory is correct. Following a scheme proposed by Nobel Laureate Chemist Harold Urey, Miller managed to produce amino acids and other organic compounds by sending electrical discharges through a mixture of gases that simulated the earth's early atmosphere. Since then, a host of other researches have repeated the experiment with different energy sources—ultraviolet rays, heat lamps and even shock waves. Taking the process through one more giant chemical step, Chemist Sidney Fox of Florida's University of Miami has succeeded in linking up test-tube amino acids into what he calls "proteinoids". There are tiny protein fragments that tend to form themselves into bacteria-sized spheres. In equally dramatic experiments, Ponnampuruma and Biochemist Juan Oro at the University of Houston have shown that it is also possible, in laboratory simulations of the early conditions on earth, to make several of the chemical building blocks of nucleic acids.

There is increasing evidence that similar chemical combinations take place in outer space. Of the thousands of meteorites that bombard the earth each year, about two per cent contain organic, or carbon-rich, compounds. On several occasions, researchers claimed that some of these meteorites—called carbonaceous chondrites—contained amino acids and even fossilised remnants of microscopic extraterrestrial life. But most scientists have contended that the amino acids or living debris was picked up by the porous meteorites either as they plunged through the earth's atmosphere or later in the laboratory.

That whole argument was dramatically reopened recently by the Ceylonese-born Ponnampuruma, who identified 17 different amino acids in a newly fallen Australian meteorite. Ponnampuruma conceded that even a thumbprint on a laboratory beaker could have introduced the acids into his test samples, but he presented evidence that seemed to rule out the possibility. Although amino acids can be assembled in two ways—one a mirror image of the other—most of those found in terrestrial life have a left-handed configuration; that is, polarised light waves passed through them are rotated slightly to the left. Yet, when Ponnampuruma tallied up the meteorite's amino acids, he found an almost equal distribution of left- and right-handed molecules. That, he felt, was a clear sign that they had come from space.

There is growing evidence that the basic chemicals of life can be found beyond the solar system. In 1968, a team of scientists from the University of California at Berkeley pointed a radio telescope toward the centre of the Milky Way galaxy, the island of stars in which the sun is located. To their great satisfaction, the big electronic ear picked up emissions that could only be given off by ammonia molecules (bombarded by radiation, molecules emit characteristic signals that can be used like fingerprints for identification). For the first time, complete, chemically stable molecules had been found in the swirling clouds of gases that occupy the enormous spaces between the star. Since that discovery, about two dozen molecules, including carbon monoxide, formaldehyde, ethyl alcohol and water, have been identified in distant space.

The discovery of these far-off molecules, many of which are essential to life, indicates that the same chemical concatenations that led to life on earth may be under way throughout the universe. Says Carl Sagan: "The building blocks of life are lying around everywhere."

Even so, life elsewhere in the universe might resemble nothing on earth. It would almost certainly be moulded by different environments and possibly by different chemistries. Says Sagan: "If we started the earth all over again, even with the same physical conditions, and just let random factors operate, we would never get anything remotely resembling human beings. There are just too many accidents in our evolutionary past for things closely resembling human beings to arise anywhere else."

Although their thinking may well reflect planetary chauvinism, most scientists believe that life, whatever its form, can begin only on a planet or one of its moons; it is inconceivable to them that it can evolve among the molecules floating in space or within the nuclear fires of stars. But are there any planets outside the solar system? The capability of detecting a planet in orbit around even the sun's nearest stellar neighbour is beyond the power of the largest optical telescopes, but many astronomers are convinced that there are billions of planets in the observable universe. The sun, they note, is an ordinary star in an island of 100 billion stars, the Milky Way galaxy. The Milky Way, in turn, is just one of billions of galaxies in the universe. Thus the laws of mathematical probability would weigh heavily against the notion that the sun is the only star with a planetary system. Moreover, the more recent theories of stellar evolution predict that the formation of planets around ordinary stars like the sun is more the rule than the exception.

Astronomers have even more direct evidence that there are distant, unseen planets. Analysing a wiggle in the path of Barnard's star, one of the sun's nearest neighbours*, they have concluded that two planets about the size of Jupiter and Saturn are orbiting the star and exerting a gravitational pull that affects its course. The observation raises the possibility that other smaller planets with less noticeable gravitational pull are also circling Barnard's star, and it helps support one common estimate by astronomers that there may be at least 50,000 million planets in the Milky Way alone.

Not all of these planets can support life. To do so, they must be orbiting a star that shines with steady intensity for billions of years and must occupy what NASA Astrophysicist Su-Shu Huang called the star's habitable zone—the region in space where the amount of solar radiation is neither too intense nor too weak for life. Taking these requirements into account and considering the rate of new star formation (about one per year in the Milky Way), the percentage of stars that have planets (about half), and other factors, the scientists attending the September meeting in Armenia concluded that there are now 100,000 to 1,000,000 technological civilisations in the Milky Way. They are an average of a few hundred light years apart, and each one is capable of transmitting radio messages.

That number, the scientists agreed, could vary widely, depending on the length of time that a race could survive as a technological society. Pessimists in the group estimated that a civilisation might survive as little as 40 to 50 years after it developed the capacity to transmit radio messages; it would soon destroy itself in a nuclear holocaust or pollute itself to death. With that short a life span, the number of technological civilisations existing concurrently within the galaxy would be quite small, the average distance between them immense, and the possibility of an exchange of messages sharply reduced.

* Six light-years, or 36 trillion miles away.

The 85-ft. dish at the U.S. National Radio Astronomy Observatory, Green Bank, Virginia, used by astronomers for investigations of the surface of Venus.

In any event, space travel as man knows it would be out of the question for contacting a civilisation in another solar system. If an astronaut were sent off in a space ship travelling at rocket speed of five miles per second, for example, it would take him at least 80,000 years to reach the nearby star, Proxima Centauri, which is 4.3 light-years away; more distant stars might keep him en route for hundreds of thousands, or millions of years.

WORLD WITHOUT MONEY

I am interested in your article on a moneyless system. HOW TRUE! Money is a curse to mankind. It certainly would be nice if there could be a universal money system. All could either be of the same rate of exchange or better yet, Universal Economics. A non-money system of economics, which would eliminate poverty debt, bankruptcy and economic stagnation.

We would indeed be so much better off without money. The major powers know this too, but don't even TRY the moneyless system. Why? because the very rich don't want to lose their power and position which their wealth enables them to have.

It is about time they thought about their fellow man, instead of how much material wealth they can build up for themselves. It doesn't seem right that while some have so much, that others must starve and eke out a very miserable existence.

I'm sure this isn't the way we are meant to live. And it is no wonder there is so much crime, war and violence in the world.

Even Christ teaches us that money is the root of all evil - 1 Timothy 6:10. And this is so true when you look over the world situation. How much better life COULD be for ALL if we could FORGET about money. I sure wish this could be accomplished on earth. You are right! We will have to keep talking about it and eventually it should get across to more people. By your magazine you should reach even more people. You hit the nail on the head when you said greed had to be done away with and in turn the other problems like pollution, etc., could be eliminated.

When we all start working for each other then will the earth begin to be a better place to live in.

THE ETERNAL SUBJECT

Chariots of Yesterday—U.F.O.'s of Today

During the last twenty-five years millions of people all over the world have reported sightings of unidentified flying objects, more popularly known as flying saucers. For years a heated controversy has raged around the subject and most governments have struggled to discount the sightings as some form of natural phenomena, hysteria, or utter nonsense. One point is quite certain. The coming of the U.F.O.'s is one of the greatest mysteries of our times.

In THE ETERNAL SUBJECT The Hon. Brinsley Le Poer Trench, the International Chairman of the worldwide U.F.O. movement, Contact, undertakes the first in-depth study of the possible connections between the U.F.O. mystery and the occurrence of psychic phenomena.

Were we seeded on this planet from outer space? Are we a hybrid race? How far are our new and changing behaviour patterns, which receive so much of their impetus from the thoughts and actions of the young, connected with a whole different mode of civilisation the seeds of which are only now being sown? What is the purpose behind the extraordinary persistence of the U.F.O.'s?

These are just a few of the startling questions that arise out of some of the most thorough research ever published concerning the mystery of U.F.O.'s. Examples are cited of U.F.O.'s spotted by astronauts. The possibility of U.F.O. bases existing on the earth and on the moon are painstakingly investigated. And the biggest question of them all—how is it possible for U.F.O.'s to reach us from deep space when such a journey would involve an awesome number of light years?—is given a fresh and credible answer. While orthodox scientists stubbornly maintain that the project is just not feasible, Brinsley Le Poer Trench examines the work of a distinguished scientist specialising in this field of study who postulates that soon it will be possible for us to go to Tau Ceti, or wherever we wish, almost instantaneously. Further, he argues that the corollary is true—that U.F.O.'s have been visiting us in like manner for a number of years.

THE ETERNAL SUBJECT is the newest and most up-to-date study of U.F.O.'s by a man pre-eminent in this field. If you have been following the flying saucer debate he will answer many of your questions. If not his provocative ideas will open up whole new vistas of thought within you, for this is a book which no-one with a genuine awareness of what is going on in this world and in outer space can honestly ignore.

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

The Hon. Brinsley Le Poer Trench, heir presumptive to the Earl of Clan-carty, has been engaged in U.F.O. research for over twenty-five years. A former editor of the world's leading and most respected U.F.O. magazine, Flying Saucer Review, author of five previous books on the subject, contributor of numerous articles to magazines in many countries, and currently International Chairman of Contact, probably the largest U.F.O. movement in the world, Brinsley Le Poer Trench is rated as one of the top-flight writers and thinkers in the international field of U.F.O. research.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir,

Regarding your letter of March 26th.....

With best wishes for the success of your venture, even if the subject title of your journal strikes us as a little ambitious. Yours sincerely,
Manager, Robinson & Watkins (Bookshop Cecil Court London).

Dear Friend Ed;

Greetings from California. It was good to hear from you again and see what you have accomplished. We will be happy to include an ad in our forthcoming magazine. Meanwhile, Please be informed that I mentioned your Magazine with complete information on a number of TV and Radio shows that I have done recently. Please take good care of yourself and write again soon. Remaining, sincerely,

Dr. Frank E. Stranges (NICUFO USA).

EDITORS NOTE: Dr. Stranges life story is appearing in the next issue of CNK, in our "CLOSE-UP on UFOLOGISTS" planned three months ago.

Dear Ed,

I am writing an article on the supernatural, for your approval. I personally think that your magazine is one of the finest of its kind in the country, and wish to support for as long as possible, Yours sincerely, Alfred Edwards.

The following letter from Peter Fairley of ITN is in connection with the story on page: 27.

Dear Mr. Harris, Thank you for your letter of March 31. I am passing your dust on to Dr. John Bastin at Queen Mary College London University, in the hope that he may be able to analyse it. He is one of the British experimenters working on the US Lunar samples. With all good wishes, Yours sincerely,
Peter Fairley Science Editor. (Independent Television News).

LETTERS TO CNK (brief summary) Many thanks to all for your goodwill remarks.-Editor.

Dear Edward, Yes I agree with the way TV put on programmes about the subject. They tell you a lot of nonsense in order to get you on their programme and then introduce a lot of contrary material that they have not told you about. Your magazine is most interesting. It seems to have grown in stature very considerably lately. Congratulations. Keep up the good work. All the best, from Brynsley Le Poer Trench. [Note: As Mr. Trench's remarks were in line with our article on page 5, I hope he does not mind me including them?]

oOo

Dear Edward, Thanks for issue 4. Three pages devoted to science fiction cartoons seems to me to be a bit much for publication reporting facts. Roger Tripp (Ed, Agreed!)

Searching for the LOCH NESS MONSTER

Conducted and compiled by Y. Lee for CNK. 1973

"Scots Spreading Monsterous Tale. March 9 1972 from The Province, Canada, via Gene Duplantier.

"The survey carried out by university students has accepted 33 sightings of the Morar monster, nicknamed "Morag". Rumors of the Morar monster go back to 1887 and it is said the loch may harbor a whole family of monsters.

Further grist for the Morag dossier has come from Lord Glendevon, a former under-secretary of state for Scotland, who recalls a fishing trip in 1931 when his trout rod was dragged from his hands and snapped in two by an "appallingly heavy" suberged creature.

"Whatever the animal was its enourmous weight prevented me from being able to lift up the rod at all," says Lord Glendevon in a written statment to the survey.

The survey team plans to use sonar underwater equipment later this year in search of Morag. Loch Morar is 12 miles long, more than 1,000 feet deep in places and once was an arm of the sea.

"LOCH NESS MONSTER TALES GO BACK 900 YEARS" from- The Globe and Mail, Friday March 17 1972, Toronto, Ontario Canada:-

Teresa Cameron saw it when she was coming home from school last winter; so, on another day, did her father, Angus, at the power station. Young John Gillies saw it last spring and called his father, the postman. Sween MacDonald, the boatman, saw its wake one day in August travelling at something like 10 knots, and on at least 18 other occasions in the past 10 years people have reported a big, black beast swimming in Loch Morar. The small committee that makes up the Loch Morar Survey now, after its second year's investigation, has a dossier of 33 reports where people have seen either the head, the snake-like humps, or the wake of something very big, moving fairly fast. The difference, compared with a few years ago, is that fewer people make flip jokes about it. Only Dr. George Cooper, sketching what he thought was a log, until it vanished... # FIND THE M.I.B

By Beryl Wallace CNK

Continuing...

Elliot O'Donnell investigated a haunted house where among the ghosts seen was one of a man with a dark complexion in a corduroy coat and red scarf who appeared at the foot of the bed of a lady of the house and then vanished. Later when she ran out of coal, a whole new stock was delivered and on finding out it was not her husband who had ordered it she made enquiries and was told it was a dark skinned man in a corduroy coat and red scarf, the family left the house, presumably to order their own coal. The question remains however that the man was physical enough to make that order, so what kind of beings are they that can be so solid one minute and ghost-like the next?

In 1898 during the airship flap in the U.S.A., a dark skinned man walked into the District Attorney's Office in San Francisco and claimed to be the airship's inventor, the DA said that he projected an aura of wealth, but the man failed to file any patent and it would appear that he was acting as a front man for another group. During another airship flap, the M.I.B used a human front man, but kept a close watch on him.

In the 1920s during the gangster cra there were many disappearances and about this time there was a sudden distrust for orientals, could it be that people witnessed M.I.B. Kidnappers at work and took them for Chinese?

In 1933 a book on the International Bankers came out, it was about an alien organisation which was supposed to be engaged in the sabotage and kidnapping - someone's observation of the M.I.B?

Hitler and his Nazis were supposed to have had dealings with these people and witnesses said that Hitler often woke screaming about intruders in his room. Just before the Maury Island Mystery broke, a Spanish General made an announcement that the Spanish did not pilot UFOs, it would seem that dark skinned men were being seen even then.

Here then is the way the M.I.B operate by disguising themselves as various people through the ages, from devils to spacemen, according to what the current mood is.

It would seem from history that what they desire is a control of the whole earth, but with some kind of understanding with those that they control.

Beryl Wallace (1972)

Note: We hope to persuade Berl to continue with any more information on the M.I.B. Meanwhile, the saga continues and from the 'late' Saucer News some more details on this page.

PHOTO LEFT:

This picture is reputed to be of an M.I.B, taken by J.W. Mosley in the USA, hiding in a doorway across street observing a house. Questions CNK asks is.1. Could it be a wax dummy planted there? It certainly looks of wax to us! 2. Why is it that the black Cadillac's number plate was so very conveniently left out of the photo by Mr. Mosley which happened on TWO occasions; not one? Has THIS photo been an elaborate hoax or just bad luck on the part of the photographer?-

J.W.MOSELEY

The photos reproduced here were taken from SAUCER NEWS 1968-69 issue, now ceased, editor Gray Barker. (Thanks Gray) and according to this magazine sometimes investigated. (see below). There are many mysteries of this nature in the U.S. But once again we would like to point out the missing license plate, it is a great pity not captured, for some reason or other TWICE, on film, by Mr. Moseley.

This story was published fully in this issue of Saucer News. A foot note read: "I personally feel this case involved an impersonator, carefully made up to resemble Jim, with the rather glaring mistake of wearing a topcoat in summer."

"Men In Black" and the black Cadillacs they arrive in are not something "dreamed up" by UFO buffs, as an article inside, by John J. Robinson, will point out. The large black auto, pictured above, carried a man in black who watched the Robinson home for more than a week. It was photographed by James W. Moseley, who also took our back-cover photo. Although SAUCER NEWS has not yet established the identity of the Robinsons' strange visitors, we HAVE proven that REAL and PHYSICAL visitations of UFO researchers, by unknown persons of questionable motives, are taking place. Don't laugh - for they may be at YOUR HOUSE tonight.

INTO the UNKNOWN

BY BETTY JONES

Betty Jones displays two of her model Flying Saucers, the one on the right is ceramic.

Many UFO researchers have had many strange things happen to them once they begin to study UFOs. I have been studying UFOs from 1965 there have been a number of incidents that have brought to light a very interesting fact. A friend of mine was studying UFOs for quite some time before we began to study together. We covered almost every phase of the F.S. before she moved away and I began to study alone in 1966. In January I had ordered some books that were advertised in a Flying Saucer magazine and from then on things began to happen.

It all began in Kalispell, Montana in 1968 when I began to find black marks on my kitchen floor every morning and my doors were unlocked. My husband works, the swing shift at a plywood plant and does not come in till 2.00am, so I naturally thought it was his boots, but he informed me he took them off at the back kitchen door. Also he said I had forgot to lock the kitchen door. We tested all the children's shoes and no shoes left marks on the floor. I mopped the floor after everyone went to bed but the marks were there every morning. They went only so far across the floor and stopped and the door was unlock as unusual. I made certain I locked the doors and cleaned up the marks but every morning there they were. I finally just forgot them and have no idea when they ceased. I never had any answer until an incident years later which I will report later on.

On Good Friday April 12

1968 (full moon) I was watching the eclipses of the moon with field glasses ,it lasted about 3 hours 25 minutes.I Tired of looking at the moon and noticed this sparkling star. It was very still and was there for sometime before it started flashing brightly coloured lights, red, yellow and orange. It left at a tremendous speed,to the south-west and disappeared over the mountains.It was not an airplane because it stood still in space for a long time. I checked for artificial satellites and there was a Cosmos 155 but I never had the exact time of its passing. Then the strangest thing happened on Wednesday 24th June 1970 (5 days after full moon) around midnight or later I had went to bed. My bedroom is to the right of my kitchen and the doorway and light switch are sice by side on the kitchen wall. I was laying there when my kitchen light flicked on and off. I convinced myself that it never really happened since I was alone while my husband was at work and would be home around 2.00am. When Ron came home and was ready for bed and he had just laid down when he saw the front room light flick on,he waited for someone to turn it off and when he heard no one he went in to see who was there. He thought I had company staying in the front room overnight. He went to see who was there and there was no one,and my pole lamp was on. I might add that the lamp was new and I never used it at all and still do not. He turned it off and went to bed. The next day I told him about the kitchen light and he told me about the front room lamp. We checked for a loose connection but we never found any. It has never been on since so it was very strange. The next sighting was on Friday April 9, 1971 (one day before the full moon) It was between 11.00 and 11.15pm, dark with storm clouds all around except the moon which was in a circle of light clear sky. I noticed two bright objects above the storm clouds in a patch of open sky. They were about the size of a large star. I had received Gray Barker's SAUCER NEWS and he asked us to participate in an experiment with him on now 4 1968. We were to put our names on Ted Owen's Space Scroll to see if his SI's would make themselves known to ones on there.

SPACE DUST or HOAX?

It came into our possession with the story that about 1963- a man, Mr. D.W. was out on Salisbury Plain, driving a harvester, when a strange orange cloud settled on the corn nearby for a few moments, leaving behind 12 burnt circles. Mr. DW said he got scared and ran from the scene, but returned later to collect the harvester and also picked up a black tube about 12 x 1 inches. He told CNK the army was soon there telling them not to go near the marks or touch the black tubes. They were ordered to burn some of the surrounding corn, he claims. Not wanting to get mixed up with anything extraterrestrial and left the job at once. The black tube, he found, crumbled into powder when given pressure, and had therefore kept it until now. The whole story of the black powder might be doubtful but cannot be dismissed. We sent it for analysis. The rest of the story seems to be true. "There was such a UFO case," recalls Malcolm Jay over the telephone, but date is uncertain. DW claimed the event was reported in these newspapers... The Times, Daily Mirror and Reveille. But on writing to all three, the same answer was received that they had checked their records but could not find any reference to it.

However, we asked our consultantsts to analyse the black powder. Samples were sent to: R, Alan McDermott BSc, who said he found it to be, silicone and graphite with a little sand of earthly origin, found anywhere.

To Roy Lake, who passed it to Stephen J.A. Onis in a University College. Results of tests:

"The sample was a finely divided black powder with small shiny metallic particles. Complete rundown was; Silicone based material, small pebbles, fine sand, bits of red house brick, rusted iron and carbon.

One sample sent to Norman Oliver has mysteriously disappeared! Three others, now awaiting results from are:
